MARKET GROPING TO FIND BEARINGS.

Stocks Do Not Recover Their Equilibrium and No Definite Results Are Reached.

FEELING OF UNCERTAINTY.

In Early Part of Week Prices Continue Upward, but Give Way Under Steady Stream of Profit-Taking Sales.

New York, Aug. 23.—Stocks did not recov-er their equilibrium last week, and the story of the daily movements for the stated time is simply that of the gropings of the stock market in its efforts to find its bearings. No results were reached, but it is possible that the market might have found a definite tendency had it not been for the highly artificial means adopted by the Wall street traders to assist it.

In the first part of the week there was a continuance of the upward swing of prices, in which manipulation played an important part and which finally had to give way under the steady streams of profit-taking sales for foreign and domestic account. Then the floor operators changed their tactics and a sharp reaction followed.

At the lower prices, however, another ob-stacle was met. Investors again made inquiries and the absorptive power made its influence felt. One or two deductions could be made from these operations. First, that as a higher range of price is established Second, that at the recently established low quotations investors showed an inclination o come into the market. UPWARD RUSH.

Looking back on the events which folof prices, the violent upward rush which the traders gave the stock market seems to have been exceedingly Ill-advised. Of course the traders gave the stock market seems to have been exceedingly ill-advised. Of course, the action assisted those who had stocks for sale, allowing weak spots to be strengthened, but at the same time it induced some investors and strong interests to resell those securities which had been bought at the lower prices.

The foreign buyers quickly took advantage of the sudden and substantial advance to market their purchases at handsome profits. They evidently did not believe in the stability of the movement, and their judgmant proved to be correct.

Of course, it was not to be expected that the market could assume a normal condition immediately after the distressing times of a few weeks ago. The extended short interest made possible the substantial advance, but it now appears that this movement was based on nothing more than the necessities of the short interest.

The results were unfortunate. The foreign purchases of our securities, which were rapidly making exchange and would in all probability have forced gold imports, first cased and subsequently were materially canceled by the resales of stocks at the higher prices. Thus the professional trader eliminated, for the time being at least, one of the factors which would have been of great assistance to our money market. It seems to be the consensus of opinion that the great effort which economic laws and financial forces are now making is for the establishing our money market and credit system on a mare equitable basis.

MONEY MARKET.

It is the money market to which can be inseed most of the present distress.

It is the money market to which can be traced most of the present distress. Of the agencies and multitude of circumstances, agencies and multitude of circumstances, financial excesses and overproduction of securities and their subsequent inflation which produced the distemper now being felt in our credit and money markets, much has been previously written in this column. The correction of the abuses and the rectification of the unfortunate condition are now and have been taking place. Something has to give when credit is so impaired that it demands such high rates of compensation as are now being paid throughout the country.

as are now being paid throughout the country.

The laws of economics work as irresistibly as do those of nature. What has happened in the stock market during the last few months has brought us considerably nearer to the rectification of the evil which has been somewhat modified. Help probably will come from abroad and from within, but the process seems to be a show one and progress is frequently stopped by various developments. Take, for example, the events in the last week. The purchases of many thousand shares of stock by foreigners two weeks ago, calimated to be in the neighborhood of 200,000 shares, meant the return to this country or disposal here of at least $20,000,000 in credit.

This amount would have been of great assistance in the present tightened condition of the money market. At the moment, however, when foreigners were considering the payment on their purchases of stock, the stock market took on an unnatural buoyancy and substantial profits could be reaped by the resales of the stock purchased.

EXCHANGE ADVANCED.

EXCHANGE ADVANCED. It, therefore, came about that at the moment when foreign banking-houses in his city were considering importing gold the conditions were changed. Sterling ex-this city were considering importing gold the conditions were changed. Sterling exchange advanced on the sales of stock for foreign account and it has since rapidly withdrawn from the gold point. This development, however, is but an incident. As has been stated, the process is slow, but the solving of the money problem is inevitable.

The stock market ought to assume a dull condition, with unimportant changes in either direction. As a matter of fact, dullness in the stock market is what the leading bankers are samestly praying for. The present period in itself is certainly not a favorable one to advance prices with artificial stimulatios, considering the fact that demands will be begun in a few days upon Eastern bankers for funds to move the corn crop also will have to be moved.

A period of inactivity and stock-market stagnation would produce beneficial results other than flustrating the money market. By the end of November or December, when the crops are gathered and the usual stringency affecting money in the autumn has been passed, it will then be time for active professionals to take their bearings on the market. In the meantime stock-market sentiment is more cheerful, although liquidation keeps cropping out and serves as a check on enthusiasm.

MEXICO'S MOVE SIGNIFICANT.

Republic Buys Property at Several Places Near the Boundary for Barracks and Fort Plans.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Washington, Aug. 23.-Border lawlessness in the Southwest is still serious enough to cause Brigadier General F. D. Grant, U. B. A., to urgently recommend that the military defense of the Mexican border be

In his annual report, just received at the War Department, General Grant makes significant and interesting allusions to conditions there. He says:

"It goes without saying, of course, that from El Paso westward the Mexican border demands different and far less vigilant military observation than the more important Mexico, but it is respectfully submitted that, viewing future possibilities, the para- proof building of standard construction, mount purpose should be to discover the primal military object in maintaining obrvations along the Mexican border.

"Peace between the two countries is, of course, a happy condition, in no way threatened to be disturbed on either side of the border, but it would seem to be no act of unfriendliness on our part at least, ernment already awake to the necessity of naintaining larger and more extended milltary footholds along the border.

"The purpose of the Mexican Government in choosing for the site of a large military post a point opposite to our own small two ompany post (Fort McIntosh), on this side of the border, 's due, doubtless, to the fact that in that vicinity are a class of desperate persons, fugitives from justice, who but for the presence of a military force might cause more or less irritation and friction between the inhabitants of the two countries.

"A similar condition of things prevails at other points along the border, where, for one reason or another, fugitives of the laws of both countries assemble on one side or the other of the boundary line, cluding the officers of their respective Governments, and, by reason of their lawless status, become all the more menacing and uncontrollable."

ARCHBISHOP HARTY'S PLANS. Expects to Leave Havre for the United States August 29.

Reverend Thomas A. Hendrick of Rochester, N. T., as Bishop of Cebu, Philippine Islands, was performed this morning by Cardinal Satolli in the church of the Franciscan missionary nuns.

The occasion acquired special importance ause one of Cardinal Satolli's assistants at the function was Archbishop Harty, the Metropolitan of the Philippine Islanda. Pius X still keeps for himself the Patriarchate, thus avoiding a revival of the question whether the Italian Government has the right to choose the Patriarch Venice, which it claimed when Barto was appointed to that post.

The scene to-day was picturesque in the extreme when the red-robed Cardinal, surrounded by the Bishops and a number of nums clad entirely in white, proceeded to the symbolic function of consecration. The students of the American College came to Rome from their villa at Castel Gandolfo specially to assist at the ceremony.
